TITLE: Insustantial Protected Data Allocation System For Mobile Cloud Computing

Description:

With the popularity of cloud computing, mobile devices can store/retrieve personal data from anywhere at any time. Consequently,the data security problem in mobile cloud becomes more severe,prevents further development of the mobile cloud.There are substantial studies that have been conducted to improve the cloud security. However,most of them do not apply to the mobile cloud since mobile devices only have limited computing resources and power.Solutions with low computational overhead are in great need of mobile cloud applications.In this project, we propose a lightweight data sharing scheme (LDSS) for mobile cloud computing.It adopts CP-ABE, an access control technology used in the normal cloud environment, but changes the structure of access control tree to make it suitable for mobile cloud environments.
